

Oct 31 Tuesday

My dearest George

I had a letter from you yesterday evening. It was a very nice one and you sound happy. I do wish I could be with you. I am sorry about Mr Earl being a little ill. I suppose if he gets bad they will send him home and perhaps he won't mind that very much. Who is Williams who lives in Mr Earl's battery?

I finished two things yesterday. A smocked frock for Clara, a little blue cotton smocked in white, I think it will be very pretty. Also my bowl, so now I shall have to begin on my breakfast set for Nancy. I do hope the bowl will fire well if it does I think it ought to be quite the nicest thing I have yet done.

We had a very nice evening yesterday talking over folk songs, we sang Robert some that he did not know, that pretty French one des trois pimoun also Go to bed sweet muse and cold blows this wind. He sang us one or two too but he says that since his wound he cannot keep in time.

I have enjoyed his visit here so much, and as I told you we have become friends, for ourselves not only for you.

There is a boy at Charterhouse known as 'Peter' though that is not his real name Robert has written that down for me he belongs to Sauncesites. He is a lot younger than Robert & Raymond but they liked him and were friends with him. He knows you and Robert says he would like to know me and thinks I had better ask him to tea. I should like to, I feel flattered that he should want to come, of course he only wants to because of you and the other two but still Robert might have told him it was not worth while, and it will be nice knowing him and talking about them and you. Darling you are a wonderful person and more wonderful to me than to any one else. You have taught me such a lot of things and the best of them is to value friendship above every thing else.

I really made a new friend yesterday though it has been growing a bit for some time. She is a Mrs Mercer and she came to my cottage services. She is quite young and just going to have a baby, well not just but it is expected at the same time that Doris's is, the beginning of January. She was a bit worried because her husband has been called up he has asked for exemption until the child is born and it has not been granted so she is going to appeal. He works a Seundries and Mr Langton will help him. You see the separation allowance for a woman without a child is 12/6 a week, that's all right if she can work which she probably can, but Mrs Mercer can't, her cottage is 7/- a week and it simply would not leave her enough to live on, and plenty of good food is necessary I have told her that I would like to go on coming to see her and if he does not get off I will help her till the baby comes when she will get 5/- more, and she says she will be able to manage with that.

You will answer me about that boy sent you at once. I don't want to leave it too long and it take ten days or a fortnight to get an answer even if you answer at once.

I have had another letter from you this morning dated the 24th & the one I had last night was the 26th. so that one was quick but this very now.

I will try and get you a song book. Maria will be coming here the week end after next. I think I will write to her and ask her to try and get one.

I will try and get you something for a present though at this moment I don't see what. I am going to send a cake today.

I think I agree with you about the ordinary story, only I don't know that it makes me feel especially empty headed when I have stopped reading it and I do often enjoy them quite a lot. I have not read the Woman in White. Robert Graves mentioned some novel of Butlers that he was impressed I had not read and he seemed to think it so nice that I would like to. It was not the Eriwans. You ought not to tell me that most people read too much, though you may tell me they think too little.

Darling I am afraid you have got to face the fact that the Clutton Books are not a permanency in Fonthcombe. She told me they would get to a larger house and nicer locality when they have more money which I suppose means when Mr Brook's Father dies. It will make a great difference to us but you know dear you need not stay at Chatsworth if you don't want to, though it would be sad to have the Hall. Still when I have you back I shall mind nothing.

Has you back got any farther than the chapter you sent me. I gather it has gone farther in your mind a lot, but I mean on paper.

I wish you could have seen Robert Graves and baby together he was very sweet with her. I am sure he really enjoyed her and there is no doubt that she enjoyed him. She is a dear little girl. I am less about the idea down but still think you might have the hot water bottle even if you don't use it in bed you could use it to dry and air your bed, and to dry other things.

I really think you would be wise to have one.

My darling think of the time when I can kiss you a proper good night. It so unsettles me to think constantly of leave that I must try not to.

Yours very loving

Ruth.
