My own much the dearest in the World

It is now after lunch
on Wednesday.

After you left yesterday I packed & did up parcels for you and Wanda and saw Bunfitt about the greenhouse Then the car came and I was not ready, but I went round and saw about the keys and that seemed all right. I left Agnes & Geaty to do the real shutting up

I hope that was all right We put Jess & the two kittens into one of those baskets that we bought for the water lilies and ~~teped~~ tied a bit of sacking over the top to keep her in. She had been getting very fidgety with the packing.

I got off at twelve and went to Westbrook & left your address for forwarding letters and had you telegram about ~~things~~ the things for Kosula telephoned on to me, it was only just in time. Then I went into the town and left the ~~you~~ cheque at the bank and told the post office about the letters. I got home at one. I rested & read some more China & then of course went to sleep. After tea I went for a walk on the commons with Aunt Agnes, and I did enjoy it, it was such a beautiful evening and the smell of bonfires & fire trees is so lovely.

This morning I went out in the pony trap with Rachel.
She has not driven much and was a little nervous at going alone and the man was wanted for the hay.

I do hope you have as nice a day in Wales as we have here, it is sunny with a blustering West wind as usual and quite cool.

I am glad Hasula is going I'm sure she will enjoy it

I am feeling very well and quite happy. It is rather nice having nothing to do, the end of the term was a rush although I hadn't much of the scramble.
I have written to the police to tell them the house is shut up and to ask them to look after it, especially at night.

I do wonder where you are climbing to day. I should'nt be surprised if you are still sleeping after lunch its only ten past two & one is usually rather late with lunch. I hope the boats are working well & that your lumberago is hot bathing.
I've written these letters before this so I'm going to stop. your loving
Ruth
