

Sir Francis Burdett presents his Compliments to Mr. de Van der Weyer - and takes the liberty to call his excellency's attention to some communications, which have been made to his Majesty the King of Belgium, as well as to the Baron himself, on the subject of Dr. Turnbull's remedies for blindness, which the Doctor is anxious to be permitted to try in the case of the numerous ^{calves} patients in the Belgian service, now laboring under that misfortune, & who, in Sir Francis Burdett's opinion, might derive much benefit from Dr. T.'s remedies, which have been very beneficial in many instances, in this country; The Doctor resides at 48 Russell Square - Dr. T.'s object is usefulness & not Emolument - St. James's Place
