

Whitehall

July 21. 1835

Gentlemen,

I am very much afraid, that amidst the incessant occupations in which I have been engaged since my return to England, I omitted properly to acknowledge your kind and effective attention to a Request made to me by my friend Mr Henry Baring - in reference to the Transcription of certain legal Instruments to the United States - and their completion by parties resident here.

I now beg to apologize for this
